MANY DELUSIONS AND SNARES ARE IN THE UNDERWOOD BILL

ROUNDLY ASSAIL TARIFF REVISION

Republicans of Ways and Means Committee Draw Up Report.

PRESENTED TO HOUSE TODAY

Minority Alleges There Is No Excuse
For Radical Plan of Revision of Revenue System, as Proposed by
the Underwood Bill—Intimate That Drop in Wages Will Follow Enactment of the Measure.

Washington, April 21.—That additional duties such as are proposed
in the Democratic tariff bill are a deception and a snare; that the radical revision submitted by the Democrats is inexcusable and unequalled for that an accounting will come for its enactment into law, are contentions of the Republican members of the ways and means committee in a minority report presented to the house today.

"There is no excuse for the radical change in our revenue system, proposed by this Democratic bill," says
the report, which is signed by Representatives Payne, Fordney, Gardner, Ware, Green and Anderson. "The party proposing it is in power, not by the grace of a majority of the American people, but by a division in the ranks of the majority of the American people.
The administration has the power to enact this legislation. The accounting for the abuse of that power
will come later."

The report contends that the bill
has caused intense and widespread
alarm in business circles and quotes
a message of Democratic Governor Baker to the Massachusetts legislature describing the proposed act as a non-
protective tariff for revenue only, unequalled, destructive downward revision.

Asserting that the Democratic bill
meets with universal approval on the other side of the Atlantic, the report declares that the protective tariff has been entirely eliminated
the framing of the bill. "No one accuses the Democratic committee," he adds, "of seeking to make up
a difference in cost here and abroad,
or even trying to put the industries on a competitive basis with the industries abroad."

"It is easily apparent," says the report, "that many of the duties have been placed on articles used by our manufacturers and imported wholly abroad as a tax on manufacture,
so that many duties have been lowered so that they are much less than difference in the cost of labor at home and abroad; that many articles
paying very low rates of duty
have been put on the free list while comparative cost of production and abroad is such that it will be impossible for business to continue
without bringing down our scale of duties to the level of the rates paid
abroad."

Young Italian Is Murdered Cold Blood

hair, who posed as a day laborer, light laugh of a woman, the

of a scuffle and the patter of footsteps brought a six-foot Russian to the dead man's

Small School Board Bill, Held Up by
House Amendment. Among the

Proposal Also Sent to Conference.
Many Commissions Created by the General Assembly.

Columbus, O., April 21.—Five measures are to be threshed out by conference committees during the recess of the legislature, which meets for final adjournment April 28.

The Warnes automobile license bill
failed to get through. The house refused to concur in the senate's directing the surplus fees be paid into the general revenue fund of the state,
whereas the house, by amendment, ordered them paid into the county treasuries for the benefit of county roads.

Senators Wise, Jung and Lloyd,
Representatives Clark, Thatcher and Vonderheide, are the conferees on the Jung small school board bill, out of which the house cut city school districts of less than 150,000 population.
Senators Jung, Broadstone, Frie-
bohn, Representatives Snyder of Hamilton, Guthrie and Reid of Payette, are to put in final shape the Snyder indefinite franchise bill. With its passage the Cincinnati delegation
finished getting through all the remedial legislation Mayor Hunt asked.

Whether nominations for municipal offices are to be made by party primaries or at nonpartisan primary
under home rule charters is to be fought
over by the conferees on the Smith
model charters bill, Smith of Butler,
Black of Hamilton and Williams.

The Friebohn judicial reform bill,
prescribing methods of procedure in
the courts under the constitutional amendment, is in committee of conference. The house attempted to amend
it by cutting the salaries of common pleas judges and granting them additional pay when they are called out of their own counties to assist judges,
but the senate refused to concur in
the amendments.

Two big bills were blocked by the house. The needed two-thirds vote to suspend the rules to advance them for final passage could not be had. As a result, the Friebohn civil service bill,
carrying into effect one of the mandatory provisions of the new constitution, and the Bernstein county officers'
term extended bill were left
among the debris on the house calendar.

No legislature of recent years has created more commissions. The list
includes the industrial commission,
agricultural commission, school survey commission, flood commission,
commission to investigate rural credits, coal screen commission, liquor
commission, insurance rate commission, commission to license nurses,
moving picture commission, normal
school commission, civil service commission, National Guard investigation
commission, rubber strike commission.

The house passed house bill No. 1,
the bill initiated by petition for the regulation of newspapers.

Painesville, O., April 21.—John
Herr of Painesville claims to have one of the oldest Bibles in the United States and one of three published in 1553 that are now extant. The other two are in Europe. It is a massive affair bound in wood and covered with Russian leather. It was printed with wood type in the Swiss-German language. It was translated from the Latin by Rudolph Wiesenbach in 1553
and printed by Andrew Vulgate. Both were burned at the stake for their work. Herr values the Bible at $6,000.

LICENSE QUESTION SETTLED

Wets and Drys After Conferences
Reach Common Ground in Dispute.

Columbus, O., April 21.—Passage of
the Greenland saloon license bill by acceptance by both houses of the
unanimous report of the conferees
practically ended the work of the four-months session of the legislature,
which is to convene for a final day
April 28, and ended the long-drawn-
out contest over the license question.

After a series of conferences, with which Governor Cox kept in close touch, the four wet members and two dry members of the conference committee reached common ground on the point in dispute between the two houses, the amendment forced into
the bill by the dries forbidding the location of saloons within 300 feet of a schoolhouse. This amendment holds its place in the bill, which will become a law as soon as signed by Governor Cox.

As altered by conference report, saloons now established are to have two years in which to move beyond the dead line. In cities there are exempted reputable hotels and clubs.

In addition to the 300-foot limitation, as measured between the saloon
and school building, there was inserted the provision that there must be 200 feet between the premises. This agreement was adopted by vote of 25
to 3 in the senate and 68 to 26 in the house.

OPTIMIST GAZES THROUGH THE GLASS

PROBABLE EFFECT OF TARIFF REVISION

Expert Redfield Sees No Cloud
On the Horizon.

Washington, April 21.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield, the acknowledged
tariff expert in President Wilson's
cabinet, was asked to give his views
on the probable effect of the Underwood plan of revision on the manufactures of the country.

Secretary Redfield, himself a manufacturer of iron and steel, can see no dark cloud on the horizon. On the contrary, he believes that the revision
will have the effect of "jolting" American manufacturers into a higher
state of efficiency. He believes that many obsolete inherited notions must
be abandoned and old machinery disregarded. American manufacturers,
in his opinion, will have nothing to fear eventually from foreign competition. The secretary foresees the day
when American manufacturers can go abroad and compete with foreign manufacturers even in their own country.

"The low duties will open the market in cases where the price here is excessive to sufficient competition to hold prices down."

No New Features In Japanese "Affair"

UP TO CALIFORNIA

President Wilson Awaits Legislators'
Action On Alien Land Bill.

Washington, April 21.—Now that President Wilson has acted with regard to the California-Japanese situation, interest in Washington is centered on what California intends to do about it.

Secretary Bryan received from Governor Johnson an acknowledgment of
his dispatch communicating to him
the views of President Wilson regarding the situation. This acknowledgment was taken to the White House
by Mr. Bryan. Further than this incident there were no new developments in the situation at this end. An increase of optimism was noticeable,
however, following the president's
recommendations suggesting a toning
down of the proposed legislation in California.

Californians in Washington stick to their predictions that a bill will be passed which will achieve the desired
end, that is, the elimination of the Japanese farmer.

The Blue-blooded Representatives of Man's Best and Truest Friends Are Quartered Here for Horse Show

Washington Society Plans Gala Time for Tonight and Tomorrow Night's Entertainment at the Big Sales Barn

Every Convenience and Comfort Has Been Provided By the Management for Both Man and Horses.

SHOWS WILL BE ALL THAT IS EXPECTED

"Blue Grass Section of Ohio" Has Provided a Show Program Worth While, and to the Buyers Who Come From a Distance, Drawn By the Magnate of the Name and Fame of This Section, the Class of the Market Will Be Offered at Auction.

Buyer of Horses for the Government, Who Will Judge the Show Classes Has Some Nice Things to Say of Show and the Sales Managers.

With banners flying, the sweet music of Wallace's Orchestra floating out upon the spring-like air, and the general bustle, bustle and confusion that marks an interesting event, the first session of the Washington Horse Show opened Monday afternoon, with a goodly crowd in attendance, and with many entries in each of the half score of classes for the afternoon.

Although the opening session was regarded as more of a preliminary to the real show, no little interest was shown in the various classes, and withal the opening session was a most pleasing one.

But tonight the show will be at its height, and the seat sale has been very heavy, with only a few of the choice seats left. Many visitors from other cities will attend the show tonight, and every event will be of deep interest. Representatives of many Ohio cities have been arriving on the afternoon trains and coming by automobile.

Wallace's orchestra is proving just as popular as ever, and at the afternoon performance was heartily encouraged. Their program for the evening session is still more attractive than that of the afternoon. For the most part the attendance at the afternoon session was made up of local citizens, although there was a goodly sprinkling of strangers present.

The three judges, Hon. George M. Rommell, chief of the Department of Animal Husbandry, United States department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.; Homer J. Kline, Secretary of the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders, Cleveland, Ohio, and Harry D. Shepard, Secretary of the Columbus Driving Park company, Grand Circuit, Columbus, Ohio, were present for the opening session. All are men of exceptional ability in the positions they fill in the show.

Special Cab Service

Cab Service for the Horse Show tonight. Call HESS LIVERY, Citizen's phone 87, Bell 55R.

Mr. George H. Rommell arrived Monday morning from Washington, D. C. After he had been shown the sales pavilion, had seen some of the horses and met local people interested in promoting the horse interests, Mr. Rommell said:

"I am greatly pleased to see so much interest taken in horses and I do not expect to make this my last visit to this section of Ohio. I am greatly interested in knowing that your people are taking up the army remount question and that you will in the future be able to furnish us horses for the cavalry. If a war were to break out now we would be unable to mount our cavalry and naturally we must remedy this defect and secure a steady supply of the right kind of horses."

Mr. Rommell is at the head of the department which has in charge the purchasing of horses for army use and when he has judged these classes at the Horse Show the farmers will know what kind of horses the department wants and can then arrange to supply this great demand. It will mean a great boon to Fayette county, without doubt, to be able to know what the demand calls for.

Quite a number of noted turfmen are attending the show, and many of them will attend the three-days' sale which follows the show.

Mr. Walter Moore, Chicago, Ill., with the Horse Review, and Mr. Omar Van Kirk, Lexington, Ky., of the Kentucky Record, are among the newspaper men in attendance.

The show is expected to do a great deal for arousing enthusiasm in the raising of horses in this part of the state, and will probably be the first of many shows to be held here.

The seating capacity of the big pavilion is upward of 2500, and a large portion of the seats are expected to be occupied during the remainder of the show.

Gym Exhibition Given Tonight

Quite a large crowd is expected to attend the first annual gymnasium exhibition which marks the close of the season at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

A number of interesting feats and exhibitions of class work will take place, showing the progress made the first year.

No admission will be charged, and everyone is invited to attend and witness the performances.

Mother Slays Vicious Canine

Rushing into the house, securing a rifle, and making short work of a vicious bull dog which had attempted to cut the throat of her small son, is the feat performed a day or two ago by Mrs. J. A. Wolfe, residing on the Foreman farm, five miles east of this city.

The vicious dog, which had made its appearance at the Wolfe home a few days before, was out with the children, when it suddenly became angered over the playful act of one of the children, and made a lunge for the child's throat. With a scream the child sprang backward and the teeth of the brute clashed together like the jaws of a steel-trap.

Again the dog sprang toward the child with the evident intention of seizing it by the throat, and again it missed its mark by a small margin. Before the dog could renew the attack the mother rushed in, seized the little fellow, and carried him into the house. She secured a rifle and upon her return placed a well directed bullet into the brute which fell in its tracks and was soon stiff in death.

Condemns Site For Postoffice

Those who are not aware that the United States authorities can condemn a site upon which to erect a postoffice building, will be interested in learning that such action has just been taken in Newark, where condemnation proceedings were instituted against the city and a land improvement company, in order to secure some park ground for the structure, on the northwest corner of First and East Main streets.

The proceedings are doubly interesting in this city, where condemnation proceedings may be resorted to in order to obtain a suitable location for the new structure to be erected here.

Derailed Car Ties Up Traffic

The derailment of a car of stone in extra south-bound freight No. 110, on the D. T. & I., caused a general tie-up in traffic at this point Monday morning.

The car left the rails near the Elm street crossing about 7:40 Monday morning, and both north and south-bound passenger trains were compelled to lay over until after the noon hour before the way was cleared by the "big hook" or wrecker from Springfield.

The derailed car, owing to the manner in which it rested after cutting through the roadbed, and the nature of its load, was difficult to handle.

LICENSE QUESTION SETTLED

Wets and Drys After Conference Reach Common Ground In Dispute.Columbus, O., April 21.—Passage of the Greenland saloon license bill by acceptance by both houses of the
unanimous report of the conferees
practically ended the work of the four months session of the legislature,
which is to convene for a final day
April 28, and ended the long-drawn out contest over the license question.After a series of conferences, with which Governor Cox kept in close
touch, the four wet members and two
dry members of the conference committee reached common ground on the point in dispute between the two houses, the amendment forced into
the bill by the drys forbidding the location of saloons within 300 feet of a schoolhouse. This amendment holds
its place in the bill, which will become a law as soon as signed by Governor Cox.As altered by conference report, saloons now established are to have two
years in which to move beyond the dead line. In cities there are exempted reputable hotels and clubs.
In addition to the 300-foot limitation, as measured between the saloon
and school building, there was inserted the provision that there must be 200 feet between the premises. This agreement was adopted by vote of 26
to 3 in the senate and 68 to 26 in the
house.

on the probable effect of the Under-

factures of the country.Secretary Redfield, himself a manu-

dark cloud on the horizon. On the contrary, he believes that the revision
will have the effect of "jolting" American manufacturers into a higher
state of efficiency. He believes that many obsolete inherited notions must
be abandoned and old machinery dis-
regarded. American manufacturers,
in his opinion, will have nothing to
fear eventually from foreign competi-

The Blue-blooded Representatives of Man's Best and Truest Friends Are Quartered Here for Horse Show

Washington Society Plans Gala Time for Tonight and Tomorrow Night's Entertainment at the Big Sales Barn

Every Convenience and Comfort Has Been Provided By the Management for Both Man and Horses.

SHOWS WILL BE ALL THAT IS EXPECTED

"Blue Grass Section of Ohio" Has Provided a Show Program Worth While, and to the Buyers Who Come From a Distance, Drawn By the Magnate of the Name and Fame of This Section, the Class of the Market Will Be Offered at Auction.

Buyer of Horses for the Government, Who Will Judge the Show Classes Has Some Nice Things to Say of Show and the Sales Managers.

With banners flying, the sweet music of Wallace's Orchestra floating out upon the spring-like air, and the general bustle, bustle and confusion that marks an interesting event, the first session of the Washington Horse Show opened Monday afternoon, with a goodly crowd in attendance, and with many entries in each of the half score of classes for the afternoon.

Although the opening session was regarded as more of a preliminary to the real show, no little interest was shown in the various classes, and with the opening session was a most pleasing one.

But tonight the show will be at its height, and the seat sale has been very heavy, with only a few of the choice seats left. Many visitors from other cities will attend the show tonight, and every event will be of deep interest. Representatives of many Ohio cities have been arriving on the afternoon trains and coming by automobile.

Wallace's orchestra is proving just as popular as ever, and at the afternoon performance was heartily endorsed. Their program for the evening session is still more attractive than that of the afternoon. For the most part the attendance at the afternoon session was made up of local citizens, although there was a goodly sprinkling of strangers present.

The three judges, Hon. George M. Rommell, chief of the Department of Animal Husbandry, United States department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.; Homer J. Kline, Secretary of the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders, Cleveland, Ohio, and Harry D. Shepard, Secretary of the Columbus Driving Park company, Grand Circuit, Columbus, Ohio, were present for the opening session. All are men of exceptional ability in the positions they fill in the show.

Special Cab Service

Cab Service for the Horse Show tonight. Call HESS LIVERY, Citizen's phone 87, Bell 55R.

Mr. George H. Rommell arrived Monday morning from Washington, D. C. After he had been shown the sales pavilion, had seen some of the horses and met local people interested in promoting the horse interests, Mr. Rommell said:

"I am greatly pleased to see so much interest taken in horses and I do not expect to make this my last visit to this section of Ohio. I am greatly interested in knowing that your people are taking up the army remount question and that you will in the future be able to furnish us horses for the cavalry. If a war were to break out now we would be unable to mount our cavalry and naturally we must remedy this defect and secure a steady supply of the right kind of horses."

Mr. Rommell is at the head of the department which has in charge the purchasing of horses for army use and when he has judged these classes at the Horse Show the farmers will know what kind of horses the department wants and can then arrange to supply this great demand. It will mean a great boon to Fayette county, without doubt, to be able to know what the demand calls for.

Quite a number of noted turfmen are attending the show, and many of them will attend the three-days' sale which follows the show.

Mr. Walter Moore, Chicago, Ill., with the Horse Review, and Mr. Omar VanKirk, Lexington, Ky., of the Kentucky Record, are among the newspaper men in attendance.

The show is expected to do a great deal for arousing enthusiasm in the raising of horses in this part of the state, and will probably be the first of many shows to be held here.

The seating capacity of the big pavilion is upward of 2500, and a large portion of the seats are expected to be occupied during the remainder of the show.

Gym Exhibition Given Tonight

Quite a large crowd is expected to attend the first annual gymnasium exhibition which marks the close of the season at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

A number of interesting feats and exhibitions of class work will take place, showing the progress made the first year.

No admission will be charged, and everyone is invited to attend and witness the performances.

Mother Slays Vicious Canine

Rushing into the house, securing a rifle, and making short work of a vicious bull dog which had attempted to cut the throat of her small son, is the feat performed a day or two ago by Mrs. J. A. Wolfe, residing on the Foreman farm, five miles east of this city.

The vicious dog, which had made its appearance at the Wolfe home a few days before, was able to know with the children, when it suddenly became angered over the playful act of one of the children, and made a lunge for the child's throat. With a scream the child sprang backward and the teeth of the brute clashed together like the jaws of a steel-trap.

Again the dog sprang toward the child with the evident intention of seizing it by the throat, and again it missed its mark by a small margin. Before the dog could renew the attack the mother rushed in, seized the little fellow, and carried him into the house. She secured a rifle and upon her return placed a well directed bullet into the brute which fell in its tracks and was soon stiff in death.

Condemns Site For Postoffice

Those who are not aware that the United States authorities can condemn a site upon which to erect a postoffice building, will be interested in learning that such action has just been taken in Newark, where condemnation proceedings were instituted against the city and a land improvement company, in order to secure some park ground for the structure, on the northwest corner of First and East Main streets.

The proceedings are doubly interesting in this city, where condemnation proceedings may be resorted to in order to obtain a suitable location for the new structure to be erected here.

Derailed Car Ties Up Traffic

The derailment of a car of stone in extra south-bound freight No. 110, on the D. T. & L., caused a general tie-up in traffic at this point Monday morning.

The car left the rails near the Elm street crossing about 7:40 Monday morning, and both north and south-bound passenger trains were compelled to lay over until after the noon hour before the way was cleared by the "big hook" or wrecker from Springfield.

The derailed car, owing to the manner in which it rested after cutting through the roadbed, and the nature of its load, was difficult to handle.

Being a Good Loser

The Gerrymander—dividing the state into new congressional districts—passed by the General Assembly last week deals, from a political standpoint, harshly with the future of the congressman from this district.

Under the new order of things, if the newly enacted legislation finally becomes operative, and now nothing remains to make it operative save only the signature of the governor, Mr. Post will be placed in a district overwhelmingly Republican, judged by elections statistics.

Mr. Post is not the only Ohio Congressman who will be legislated out of Congress by the new law.

Naturally the Ohio Congressmen, whose political future is apparently cut short by the law, are considerably excited over its enactment and are expressing their views in language which discloses their mental state.

Some of the Ohio Congressmen are very bitter in their denunciation of the law and of all the men who had a part in its enactment, while others do not take the matter quite so much to heart, judging by their expressions of opinion.

The most philosophical man of the lot, however, is Mr. Post, who takes it all good naturedly and announces that somebody had to be sacrificed and he fails to see why he should have been the one spared. He expresses himself as pleased with having been twice elected to Congress and a preference for being let out by a Gerrymander process rather than by defeat at the polls.

Like ex-President Taft, the Congressman from this district is not expressing his wrath and swearing eternal vengeance on everybody and everything. He realizes that he has been honored and that he had no life time lease on a public office.

If more of the Ohio Congressmen would accept matters inevitable as Mr. Post has, they would raise themselves higher in the estimation of their constituents and the people throughout the state generally.

Too many men think that once in there should be no change made and consequently quit mad through and through when the final gong rings.

It is refreshing to see men accept political fate with good grace. Such are the fortunes in political life.

Being a good winner is fine, but being a good loser is better by far. It takes a game man to lose gracefully.

Poetry For Today

"PAY AS YOU GO."

A word of good counsel we ne'er should forget,
Is that which forewarns us to keep out of debt;

For half of life's burden the man overthrows
Who starts out determined to pay as he goes.

'Tis folly to listen to those who assert
That a system of credit does good, and no hurt;

For many have squandered their income away,
And homes have been wrecked by a promise to pay.

A man to be honest, as merchant or friend,
In order to have, must be willing to spend;

Is it love, or affection, or faith they bestow?
Return their full value, and pay as you go.

He loses the sweetest that life can impart
Who locks up a treasure of wealth in his heart.

To reap a rich harvest of pain or regret,
When too late he discovers how great is his debt.

No loss like the losing that comes of delay
In binding the wounds that are bleeding today;

For where is the comfort of tears that are shed
On the face of the dying, the grave of the dead?

A good word of counsel we ne'er should forget;
To keep out of danger is to keep out of debt!

If peace and contentment and joy you would know,
Don't live upon credit, but pay as you go.

—Josephine Pollard.

Hydroaeroplane

Will Be Ship of Future

By ORVILLE WRIGHT, Aeroplane Inventor

THE HYDROAEROPLANE IS THE SHIP OF THE FUTURE. IT IS THE ONE THING THAT WILL OVERCOME THE DANGERS OF SEA TRAVEL AND MAKE A JOURNEY ACROSS THE OCEAN NO MORE THAN A TRAIN TRIP.

The hydroaeroplane that I have in mind will be able to journey over and through the roughest sea and, besides, will be able to TRAVEL TWICE AS FAST AS THE SPEEDIEST STEAMSHIP. The development of the hydroaeroplane so far has been slow because people have not yet begun to realize the vast possibilities that it presents.

It will eventually be built to TRAVEL ON LAND, WATER OR IN THE AIR, according to the desire of the operator. There is, to my mind, no limit to its development. It is the vehicle of the future. There is a great deal more interest in airships and aeroplanes abroad than in this country, and this is because of an UNNATURAL FEAR in which the American people hold the present methods of air travel.

Every time an accident occurs over here you see it displayed in the headlines of the newspapers, but if an air man breaks an altitude record or flies for an unusually long distance he gets little more than a paragraph. So the airship has come to be REGARDED AS A DANGEROUS THING, and but few of the American public want anything of it.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, IT IS NO MORE DANGEROUS THAN ANYTHING ELSE THAT CARRIES AN ELEMENT OF RISK WITH IT.

Wet and Dry Leaders Comment On License; Both Praise Cox

A. J. Freiburg, counsel for the liberal interests, says:

"The license law is a thing for which the more enlightened, liberally inclined citizens have been laboring for years. The weak point in the control of the liquor business in Ohio hitherto has been the impossibility of dislodging the irrepressible and trouble-making saloonkeeper from his position. As long as he paid the tax he was immune from attack. Now, under the license law, there will be a process of selection. The county license commissioners are required to reduce the number of saloons by more than one-half in most of the cities, and to weed out those who are not fit to carry on the business. A premium is put on the obedience to the law. A saloonkeeper may feel practically certain in his tenure if he keeps a proper place. If not, he must leave the business, never to return.

"I consider the Greenlund bill the most complete and modern license law in the United States. Of course, it is not perfect, but it contains the best that is to be found in the laws of other states and eliminates much that has been by experience found to be ineffective.

"Governor Cox is entitled to lasting credit for the passage of the bill, for it was he who brought the warring sides together and directed the work of drafting the bill. Senator Greenlund has been untiring in his labors and in his study to make the bill as nearly perfect as may be. His tact and ability saved many a situation.

"The brewers and liquor dealers will have to make many sacrifices under this law, but I believe that in the end they will find the law to be to their lasting advantage. The friction due to these enormous changes will turn out not to be so serious as many now fear, and in the improvement of the personnel of the retail business they will find their greatest justification."

Wayne B. Wheeler, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, says:

"The new license law has a number of regulative features in it which will control the liquor traffic further if enforced.

"The most important are those which reduce the saloons more than 2000; the power to suspend the license and to have it automatically revoked on second conviction; also to prohibit sale to minors and the location of the saloon near schoolhouses.

"The difficulty will arise in enforcing these provisions. A large number of the 2000 and more saloons that are supposed to close will continue as speakeasies, just as they are doing in Pittsburg. It will take added power conferred on officers to control them.

"The governor has great faith in the license system as the best method for controlling the liquor traffic in wet territory, and worked consistently for the law. In the last hours of the conference session he has aided in keeping certain regulations in the bill which might have been defeated in the senate.

"The governor has the rare faculty of lining up more representatives and senators for a bill in which he is interested than anyone with whom I ever came in contact.

"This is demonstrated from the fact that he has been able to put through a legislative program of more than 50 bills in less than four months.

"During the fight on the license bill the governor's public and private offices were open at all times to the preacher as well as to the brewer; to the anti-saloon workers and also to the lobby for the liberal interests."

HE MADE THE SALE.

Method Of An Ingenious And Persistent Peddler.

"Beg pardon sir," said the man in the suit of faded black, "but are you carrying all the life insurance you want?"

"Yes sir," answered the man at the desk, "I am."

"Could I interest you in a motorcar bound edition of the works of William Shakespeare?"

"You could not."

"Do you use a germ-proof filter at your house?"

"I do not."

"Would you invest in a good second-hand typewriter if you could get it cheap?"

"I have no use for a typewriter."

"Just so. Would an offer to supply you with a first-class Havana cigar at $10 a hundred appeal to you?"

"Not a cent's worth."

"How would a proposition to sell you a folding bed for $40 strike you?"

"It wouldn't come within forty miles of hitting me."

"That being the case," said the caller, "would you be willing to buy a 10-cent box of shoe polish to get rid of me?"

"Great Scott! Yes."

"Thanks. Good day."

Havana Cabbies.

The one cheap thing in Havana is the cab service. The toll for one continuous ride between any two points in the city is about 15 cents in American money. Moreover, the Havana coach is a luxurious victoria. Instead of the clumsy two-wheeled cab with which we are familiar and for which we are charged from one dollar to five dollars, according to the avarice of the cabman and the victim's patience. Yet the Havana driver makes from $6 to $10 a day.

The country for miles to the east, west and south of Havana is rapidly becoming a paradise for owners of motor cars, says a writer in World's Work. Road building is easy of accomplishment in most sections of Cuba, and already there are completed hundreds of miles of smooth drives along which one can spin for hours beneath the plumage of parallel rows of royal palms. It is impossible to compare the country and its inhabitants with other lands frequented by tourists. It has a distinct individuality and as one glides through the little Cuban towns and villages the thought intrudes itself that the encroaching tide of outside capital and immigration is inevitably destined to change. If not obliterated, customs and conditions which are picturesque if not problems.

taste just like candy. They act easy. They cause no inconvenience whatever. Our faith in them is backed by knowledge of what they are made of and observation of severe cases of constipation and other forms of bowel troubles in which they gave prompt and pleasant relief.

Don't take our word—make us prove it. Use Rexall Orderlies, and if you don't feel like coming back to thank us for telling you about them, then come back and we will return the money you paid us for them. We won't oblige you in any way whatever. Merely ask and back goes your money to you.

Flake You Feel Great

That's what Rexall Orderlies do, because the thorough cleansing they give the bowels—their toning and strengthening effect upon the bowels—the influence they exert toward promoting prompt, easy and regular action of the bowels, thus freeing the system and keeping it free from the damage, distress and depression always caused by irregular bowel action. These beneficial results from the use of Rexall Orderlies help dispel gloom, improve the spirits and add to the joy of living. Very often they ward off serious illness that frequently result from continued constipation.

Their Easy Action

Rexall Orderlies are a common-sense remedy for bowel disorders. Easy in action, they do not purge, grip, nauseate or cause excessive looseness.

They tend to tone and strengthen the delicate intestinal nerves and muscles, promptly relieve constipation and help to overcome its cause and make its recurrence improbable. In these things they differ from old-fashioned harsh, disagreeable pills, which usually give only temporary relief and often leave the bowels in worse condition than ever.

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for delicate and aged persons and for children. In vest-pocket size tin boxes, 12 tablets, 10c; 36 tablets, 25c; 60 tablets, 50c. Usual dose one tablet.

CAUTION: Please bear in mind that Rexall Orderlies are not sold by all druggists. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores. You can buy Rexall Orderlies in this community only at our store:

Aged Farmer Badly Injured

Thomas W. Smith, aged about 68 years, residing in Buena Vista, is confined to the Protestant hospital in Columbus, suffering from a serious fracture of his right leg, sustained in Columbus Saturday evening when a motorcycle struck him.

Mr. Smith went to Columbus to visit his nephew, Harry I. Clark, attorney, residing at 72 East Oakland avenue, and the accident occurred near Mr. Clark's residence while Mr. Smith was in the act of crossing the street immediately behind a street car, and a motorcycle carrying two men dashed down the street and struck him just as he stepped from behind the car.

His right leg was so badly broken that the bones protruded through the flesh. He was taken to the Protestant hospital and will not be able to return home for some time. Owing to his advanced age there is danger of the injury proving fatal.

Mrs. Smith received word of her husband's injury and left early Sunday morning, to be with him until he recovers.

Alleged Forger Is Under Arrest

Frank Delong, a farm hand, was arrested near Clarksburg Saturday, by the Pickaway county sheriff, and was taken to Circleville to face charges of forgery preferred against him by G. A. Schleyer, cashier of the Second National bank of Circleville.

On April 8th Delong is alleged to have passed two checks in Circleville, the first on Colwell & Katz, calling for $24.25, and the second a check for $85, passed at the Second National bank.

Delong is a young man of kooky appearance, and the last person to be suspected of such a deed. A Pinkerton detective from Cincinnati ferreted out the young man.

When searched Delong had five checks upon his person, among them being one for $65 and bearing the name of M. B. Radcliff, and another for $130, bearing the name of Dennis Phillips. Both signatures were forgeries.

Morgan's Will

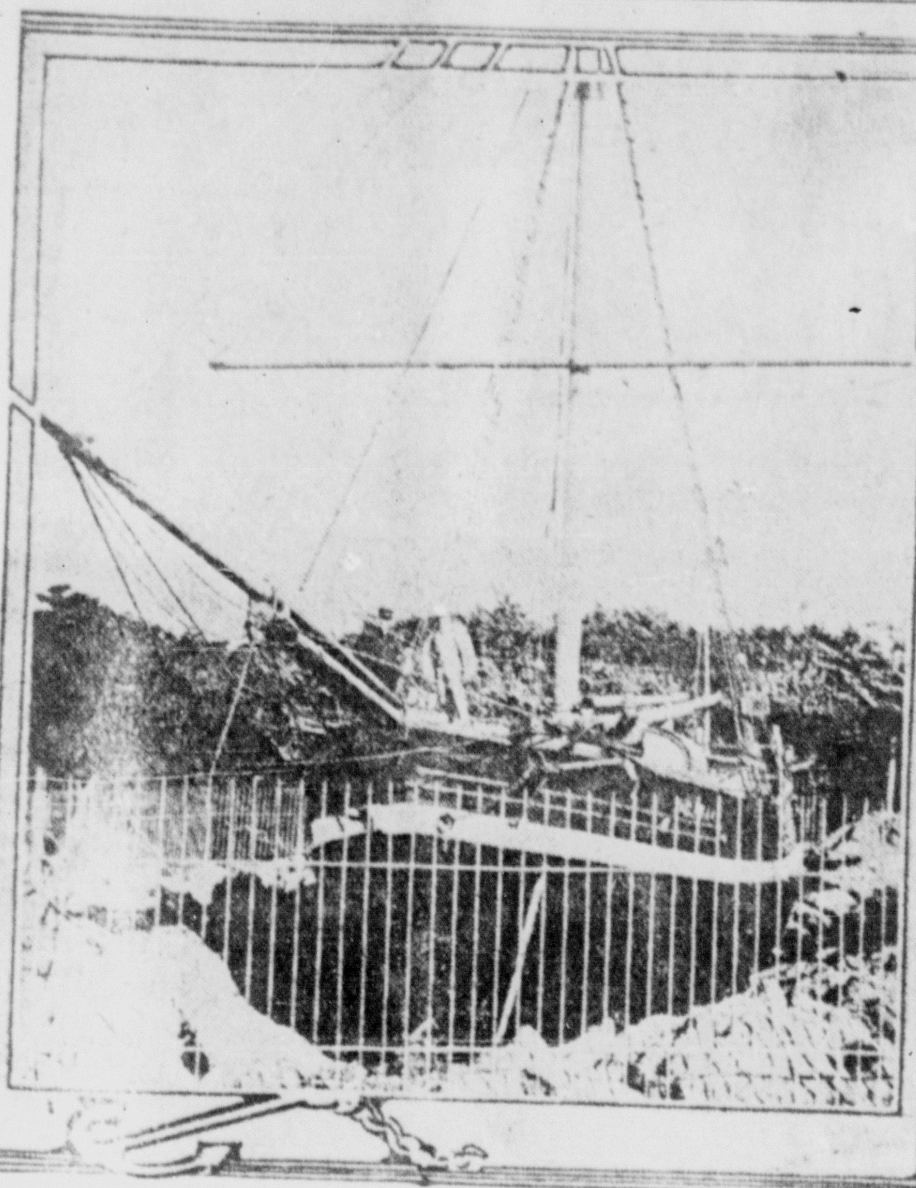

SON CHIEF HEIR

Features of the Last Will and Testament of Late J. P. Morgan.

New York, April 21.—The last will and testament of John Pierpont Morgan, who died in Rome on March 31, has been probated here. The amount of bequests and trusts, named by specific sums, is under $20,000,000, but the entire residue of the estate is left to J. P. Morgan, Jr., who is designated by his father to become the chief heir not only to his fortune, but to his many charitable and artistic activities.

A striking utterance in the will is the commitment by Mr. Morgan of his soul to his Maker. It reads: "I entrust my children to maintain and defend, at all hazard, and at any cost of personal sacrifice, the blessed doctrine of the complete atonement for sin through the blood of Jesus Christ, once offered, and through that alone."

The ship was built in Norway in 1872, length seventy feet, beam twenty feet and forty seven registered tons. It was presented on June 16, 1900, to the Golden Gate park commissioners by Amundsen and Norwegians on the Pacific coast and now on exhibition in Golden Gate park, San Francisco.

How Nations Die.

Good countries which have died have gone down fighting. The Roman empire perished like that. And by the irony of fate the power of the Caesars came to an end far away from Rome.

After it had existed for centuries the Roman empire became so vast and unwieldy that it had to be divided into two, says Pearson's Weekly, the empire of the west and the empire of the east. The capital of the former was Rome.

The empire of the west became so weak at last that it could make no stand against its enemies. Rome was sacked by the barbarians, and eventually became but the city of Popes, over which the pontiffs reign as kings. The temporal power of the popes lasted till 1870, while the capital of Italy was first Turin and then Milan. Finally, the city was taken without a real fight by the soldiers of the king of Italy.

The empire of the east had its capital at Constantinople. For centuries it was the greatest power in the world. But it became honey-combed with vice and enervated with pride and luxury. Also it grew old and weak. Then, in 1842, the Turks made a tigerish spring on Constantinople, and took it by storm. The last of the Greek emperors died sword in hand, and his descendants are living in England to-day, in very humble situations.

Profit in Robins.

In central Tennessee are large tracts of cedars, the berries of which served to attract myriads of robins in the winter. One small hamlet in that region sends to market annually enough robins to return $500 at 5 cents a dozen, equal to 120,000 birds. They are killed at night by torchlight and with sticks.

Murderer Makes Clean Get Away From Scene

ESCAPES IN TAXI

Chinaman Who Killed Fellow Countryman Carefully Planned Flight.

Columbus, O., April 21.—How carefully Moy Fat, Chinaman, had planned his escape after the murder of S. W. Tang, a Chinese-Japanese, was shown when the police learned that he had a taxi cab waiting for him around the corner when he entered the building at Third and Spring streets, where Tang was asleep in the third story. After killing Tang he walked from the building, entered the machine and was driven to Newark. Moy Fat is American born and is not expected to leave the United States.

Word from Baltimore substantiates the theory that Tang was slain by the agent of long Woo Chew, laundryman, who was almost killed by Moy Fat when the latter probably mistook him for Tang, is near death's door in St. Francis hospital.

EVER IMPETUOUS BETTY

"News!" cried Betty, waving a telegram in the air. "A couple of Rob's college friends will be here to dinner. Thoughtful of him to let us know. It's a wonder he didn't let them pounce on us unannounced. Hum—Gerald Stanton and Rob Newman. Never saw them, have you?"

The girl addressed folded up her sewing, and rose. They were sitting under the apple trees at their aunt's country house, where they were spending a few weeks.

"Do you realize that we have the meal to get, as Aunt is away?" she asked, calmly. "It's now 11."

"Heavens, so we have!" Betty jumped up and pushed back her tangled hair. "Puzzle—find the chaparral!" she cried, and disappeared in the direction of the kitchen on a run.

"Don't tell me," she exclaimed, as the other entered, rising from the floor barrel into which she had pounced head first, "don't tell me Rob isn't thoughtful. A whole hour, and a dinner to prepare for two unknown men. How much flour do I want for those biscuits?"

A few moments later the chug-chug of the expected auto sounded down the road. A roadster slowed down before the gate, and one of the occupants appeared in the doorway. Betty met him, a smudge of flour on either cheek, sleeves rolled up to dimpled elbows.

"Just come in and make yourself at home," she said. "I'm awfully glad to see you—to see you both. Excuse my cousin and myself, won't you? We're scarcely presentable; we just got the telegram—and two hungry men to feed you know—!" She made a charming little gesture, and her eyes pleaded with him, running over with mirth and excitement.

He looked rather bewildered, hesitated. "Thank you," he said.

"Sit on the lawn, it's cooler," she suggested. "We'll be out soon."

They were. One could scarcely tell how they worked the miracle, but the dinner was ready, the table invitingly set, and themselves gowned in little muslins and very presentable.

Betty pounced on the spokesman of the party, who was what she termed "tall, dark and interesting," leaving the other man to her gentler cousin.

"You must be Gerald Stanton," she said. "Don't contradict me. I've always wanted to know him. I've heard my brother speak of him so much." The fellow laughed as though hugely enjoying himself. He did not contradict her.

Her eyes challenged him mirthfully, her pretty hands flew about in gestures like little white butterflies.

They talked merrily of football-of college. Once she questioned him about Rob, and he threw back his head and laughed as though she had propounded a joke. He was charming when he laughed, at least Betty pronounced him so.

Anne, nearby, with the other men, was also enjoying herself. Once she started up as if to speak to the others, but fell back at a pleading gesture from her companion, and entered a conversation which evidently afforded them both much quiet amusement.

Later they went in to dinner, and it was a merry party that sat down. "I'm sorry Aunt isn't here," said Betty, with a smile that contradicted her words. "You see you didn't give us time to provide a chaperon."

A knock sounded at the door. "Providence has supplied one," she announced solemnly, rising. "Heavens! It's another man," as she caught sight of him through the hall.

"Do we want any sewing machines, Annie?"

He was a very presentable youth. A long dust-coat enveloped him, his hat swung easily in his hand.

"Is Mrs. Newton in?" he asked. "I'm sorry, but my aunt is away," replied Betty.

The man hesitated. "I am Rob Newman," he said. "I thought Rob—are you not his sister?"

Betty leaned against the door. Out in the street was another machine. Her eyes were glued on it, and its remaining occupant.

"Yes," she said faintly, "I—Rob Herrick is my brother."

The others had flocked out from the dining room.

"I hope," Anne was saying severely in her quiet voice, "I hope this will teach you a lesson, Betty. You never did get things straight."

"Forgive me," begged the supposed Gerald Stanton, coming to her side. "I just couldn't resist."

"You knew, Anne?" gasped Betty, turning to her cousin. She hesitated, and the dimples came out in her cheeks. "Why didn't you denounce them for impostors?" she said. "They might have gotten off with the silver," adding, "do you know who they are?"

"No," replied Anne, "but I thought he—they looked honest—" she broke off, blushing furiously.

"She took us on faith," said the man at her side.

Betty collected herself and turned to the bewildered fellow in the doorway. "Do get Mr. Newman and come in," she said. "And you," turning to the others, "you may introduce yourselves and we will all have dinner."

Being a Good Loser

The Gerrymander—dividing the state into new congressional districts—passed by the General Assembly last week deals, from a political standpoint, harshly with the future of the congressman from this district.

Under the new order of things, if the newly enacted legislation finally becomes operative, and now nothing remains to make it operative save only the signature of the governor, Mr. Post will be placed in a district overwhelmingly Republican, judged by elections statistics.

Mr. Post is not the only Ohio Congressman who will be legislated out of Congress by the new law.

Naturally the Ohio Congressmen, whose political future is apparently cut short by the law, are considerably excited over its enactment and are expressing their views in language which discloses their mental state.

Some of the Ohio Congressmen are very bitter in their denunciation of the law and of all the men who had a part in its enactment, while others do not take the matter quite so much to heart, judging by their expressions of opinion.

The most philosophical man of the lot, however, is Mr. Post, who takes it all good naturedly and announces that somebody had to be sacrificed and he fails to see why he should have been the one spared. He expresses himself as pleased with having been twice elected to Congress and a preference for being let out by a Gerrymander process rather than by defeat at the polls.

Like ex-President Taft, the Congressman from this district is not expressing his wrath and swearing eternal vengeance on everybody and everything. He realizes that he has been honored and that he had no life time lease on a public office.

If more of the Ohio Congressmen would accept matters inevitable as Mr. Post has, they would raise themselves higher in the estimation of their constituents and the people throughout the state generally.

Too many men think that once in there should be no change made and consequently quit mad through and through when the final gong rings.

It is refreshing to see men accept political fate with good grace. Such are the fortunes in political life.

Being a good winner is fine, but being a good loser is better by far. It takes a game man to lose gracefully.

Hydroaeroplane Will Be Ship of Future

By ORVILLE WRIGHT,
Aeroplane Inventor

THE HYDROAEROPLANE IS THE SHIP OF THE FUTURE. IT IS THE ONE THING THAT WILL OVERCOME THE DANGERS OF SEA TRAVEL AND MAKE A JOURNEY ACROSS THE OCEAN NO MORE THAN A TRAIN TRIP.

The hydroaeroplane that I have in mind will be able to journey over and through the roughest sea and, besides, will be able to TRAVEL TWICE AS FAST AS THE SPEEDIEST STEAMSHIP. The development of the hydroaeroplane so far has been slow because people have not yet begun to realize the vast possibilities that it presents.

It will eventually be built to TRAVEL ON LAND, WATER OR IN THE AIR, according to the desire of the operator. There is, to my mind, no limit to its development. It is the vehicle of the future. There is a great deal more interest in airships and aeroplanes abroad than in this country, and this is because of an UNNATURAL FEAR in which the American people hold the present methods of air travel.

Every time an accident occurs over here you see it displayed in the headlines of the newspapers, but if an air man breaks an altitude record or flies for an unusually long distance he gets little more than a paragraph. So the airship has come to be REGARDED AS A DANGEROUS THING, and but few of the American public want anything of it.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, IT IS NO MORE DANGEROUS THAN ANYTHING ELSE THAT CARRIES AN ELEMENT OF RISK WITH IT.

Poetry For Today

"PAY AS YOU GO."

A word of good counsel we ne'er should forget,
Is that which forewarns us to keep out of debt;
For half of life's burden the man overthrows
Who starts out determined to pay as he goes.
'Tis folly to listen to those who assert
That a system of credit does good, and no hurt;
For many have squandered their income away,
And homes have been wrecked by a promise to pay.

A man to be honest, as merchant or friend,
In order to have, must be willing to spend;
Is it love, or affection, or faith they bestow?
Return their full value, and pay as you go.
He loses the sweetest that life can impart
Who locks up a treasure of wealth in his heart,
To reap a rich harvest of pain or regret,
When too late he discovers how great is his debt.

No loss like the losing that comes of delay
In binding the wounds that are bleeding today;
For where is the comfort of tears that are shed
On the face of the dying, the grave of the dead?
A good word of counsel we ne'er should forget;
To keep out of danger is to keep out of debt!
If peace and contentment and joy you would know,
Don't live upon credit, but pay as you go.

—Josephine Pollard.

One of the Chillum City Park deer that escaped during the recent flood was hit by a train last Friday. The animal was crossing the B. & O. tracks when the train struck it and one of its hind legs torn off. The pain maddened deer kept on running and jumping fences until it bounded exhausted into the arms of a Frenchtown grocery man. The wounded animal was placed in a shed and its torn leg treated. It is still alive.

HOW TO TREAT AILING CHILDREN

Growing children play hard and work hard at school, which with rapid growth uses up an enormous amount of energy and vitality that must be replaced.

When a child is tired all the time, no appetite, weak, delicate and sickly we guarantee Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, will build them up, create a hearty appetite, sound flesh, and muscle tissue, pure healthy blood, and make them strong.

Mary Lang of Altoona, Pa., writes: "Ever since childhood I have been weak and delicate and my blood has been thin and poor. Many different forms of treatment did me no good, but last spring I took Vinol and now I am so much stronger and better that I want you to know it. I don't know when I have felt so well and vigorous as I have since taking Vinol."

If Vinol fails to do just what we say, we will give back your money. Blackmer & Tanquary, Druggists, Blackmer & Tanquary, Druggists, P. S. For any skin trouble try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

DISCIPLES OF ANANIAS

Mrs. Dearborn's talk at the Ladies' Aid meeting was really at the root of it all. "What half the men need," she had said, "is to have their eyes opened to the women that really want them. Why, one of the happiest marriages I know was brought about by the man's reading one of his sister's letters for fun. In it a chum of hers was raving over his own perfections and he was so taken with her good taste that he set on to cultivate her acquaintance, fell in love with her and married her, so there!"

Ruth Norcross was idly turning over the laughing words in her mind as she slowly walked homewards up the long village street when suddenly the great idea flashed across her brain! Involuntarily her steps quickened and the blood surged hotly into her face at the very audacity of the thought—and yet, why not?—he could never find out the truth, and if it only should come true—

She was almost running by the time she turned in at her little cottage, the little home that had sheltered so many tender, half-shy dreams that the passing of a certain doctor's buggy never failed to set in motion. Hurriedly, without removing hat or coat, as if she feared her courage might fail her, she seated herself at her writing desk and with hardly a moment's pause for consideration, for the next half hour or so she wrote feverishly.

Her letter finished, without re-reading a word she inclosed it in an envelope, stamped and addressed it, and inside of five minutes more she had dropped it in the corner post box and was back again in the house. Then, when it was too late, woman-like, the horror of what she had done came over her.

She, Ruth Norcross, who in all her 28 years had hardly permitted a man to even "beau her home," had laid her heart bare to a man who had never shown her more than the merest passing attention. Oh, she could never look him in the face again!

She would leave Acton to-morrow—no, that would be to confess all—what should she do?

From the rather heterogeneous mass of his usual morning's mail, Dr. William Ainslie selected one envelope addressed in a plainly feminine hand, studying it for a second or so with a rather puzzled frown.

His next movement, after reading it, must we confess it, was to walk deliberately to the mirror and stand complacently gazing into its depths. What he saw there was evidently not far from pleasing, but what he said was, "What a confounded shame!"

Ruth dragged her reluctant feet to the door in answer to his brisk ring at her bell along about noon. Oh, why couldn't he have stayed away? What could he want?

"Ah, good morning, Miss Ruth," began the doctor, cheerfully, as she slowly opened the door, "I believe you wrote to me last night."

"Why, er—" stammered the unhappy culprit. "Well," he went on gayly, with not a glance for her confusion, "I really must ask you to repeat what you said."

Repeat, oh, Lord! forbid! Had her life depended upon it she could not have enunciated a syllable.

"Because I must confess to more than criminal carelessness, I had only just glanced at the signature, that's a habit of mine you know, looking at my correspondents' signatures first, when somehow I clumsily let the whole thing slip, caught my fingers and it landed right in the middle of the open great fire, and poof! up it went in smoke, so here I am to find out what was in it."

Shades of Ananias! Anyone less confused than Ruth might have questioned the doctor's glances of the excuse, but in the great wave of thankfulness that swept over her, Ruth could think could feel, but one thing, she was saved! The next moment she heard her own voice saying, "light!"

Oh, it was nothing, doctor. I merely asked if you happened to have the holiday number of Harper's. I knew you took the magazine and as I was getting off a lot of belated letters, I made bold to drop you a line. But won't you come in, Dr. Ainslie?"

Dr. Ainslie would, and more than that, Dr. Ainslie ended by inviting the bewildered Miss Norcross to drive with him the following afternoon to the neighboring village of Tremont on some professional calls, a proceeding so utterly foreign to his usual custom as to excite even that happy young woman's momentary suspicion.

"What if he had read it after all?" So go she did, not once but many times, and the following clipping from the county weekly some months later speaks for itself.

"Married.—At Acton, by the Rev. S. W. Brown, Miss Ruth Norcross to William Seaver Ainslie, M. D."

In closing it may not be amiss to mention that long before this Ruth had discovered that the doctor's room possessed no resemblance of an open grate.—JESSIE ANDERSON STICKNEY.

CHILLICOTHE SENDS THANKS TO THIS CITY FOR HELP FURNISHED

Mayor Cahill Writes Letter of Appreciation of Aid Furnished, Warmly Thanking Local Citizens for Assistance in Time of Need—Aid Sent Was Small to What It Would Have Been Under Other Circumstances.

Mayor Harve W. Smith is in receipt of a letter of thanks from Mayor Cahill, of Chillicothe, on behalf of the citizens of Chillicothe, for the assistance rendered that city during the suffering occasioned by the recent flood.

The relief sent to Chillicothe by local citizens was very small to what it would have been had the railroad been in working order at the time of greatest need, and had not the call from Dayton been so persistent, with easy means of sending the supplies from this point, and also the call from the West Side at Columbus and from Zanesville, to which points relief was also furnished.

The first shipment made to Chillicothe was done late at night when a call for oil stoves and blankets was made. Two automobiles were quickly loaded and reached the city of Chillicothe after much difficulty, and for several days thereafter no railroad communication between this city and Chillicothe could be established.

The first news of the disaster at Chillicothe was given to the outside world by The Washington Herald, which, immediately upon learning of the calamity, telephoned the news to Cincinnati, Columbus, Springfield and other points, and also informed New Holland and Williamsport of the need of assistance in Chillicothe, so that those towns immediately turned their aid toward Chillicothe.

Mayor Cahill's letter to Mayor Smith reads:

Chillicothe, O., April 18, 1913.
Hon. H. W. Smith, Mayor Washington C. H., Ohio.

My Dear Mayor—On behalf of the citizens of Chillicothe I desire to extend to you, and through you to the citizens of Washington C. H., our most heartfelt thanks for the most generous assistance you gave us during the late disaster through which we have just passed.

I assure you your most generous aid has been highly appreciated by every one in our city and, while I hope your city will never be visited by a similar disaster, I assure you that the citizens of Chillicothe, to a man, will always and at all times be delighted to assist you and your citizens in every way possible.

Thanking you again, I am
Yours most gratefully,
JAMES A. CAHILL, Mayor.

Girl to Get That Amount For Rising Children.

Lowell, Mass.—Wedding bells, it is said, will soon ring for Miss Mary Belle Shedd of Lowell, the most talked of young woman in Middlesex county. Under the terms of one of the strongest wills ever filed in a New England court Miss Shedd will lose about $3,000,000 unless she marries and has children. When this became known the young woman was deluged with marriage proposals.

The offers of marriage continue to arrive, but it is rumored that the daughter of the late millionaire perfume manufacturer, Freeman B. Shedd of Lowell, made her choice some time ago. This will save overburdened letter carriers.

Washington, April 21.—As part of his policy to give the enlisted men of the navy a liberal education, Secretary Daniels announced that the entire Atlantic battleship fleet will next winter make a three months' cruise of the Mediterranean. The fleet which will make this cruise will be stronger than the fleet which cruised around the world in 1907-8.

First Aid to the Injured.

On a rock-strewn beach on the Cornish coast the fury of a violent storm was just abating. A vessel had gone to pieces on the rocks, and after a display of much heroism on the part of the villagers all the passengers and crew had been saved with the exception of one man. He had been washed ashore apparently drowned, and the new curate knelt at his side on the beach, endeavoring to restore his circulation.

"My friends," he said, turning to the villagers, "how do you usually proceed in these cases?"

As one man the simple folk replied:

"Search his pockets."

A young man who was anxious to secure a job as a railroad brakeman, wandered into one of the local yards the other day and came across a bunch of railroad men who were sitting in a shanty. He made known his ambition, and one of the men who is quite a joker, asked him a few foolish questions. The youth answered them and then asked:

"How long before I'll be likely to get a job?"

"Sit down and wait," said the joker. "There's ten or fifteen brakemen killed here every day, and you can't tell how soon we will need you."

The young man's ambition seemed to fade, and he remembered that he had an engagement elsewhere.

It was during a very tedious ride on a Western railway, and the passengers tired, dirty and thirsty, all berated the company with the exception of one single man. His fellow passengers commented on this and asked him why he did not denounce the company too.

"It would be hardly fair," he replied, "as I am travelling on a free pass; but if they don't do better pretty soon, blamed if I don't go out and buy a ticket and join you."

Trained Nurse Tricks.

The child: "Are you the trained nurse mother said was coming?" The nurse: "Yes, dear, I'm the trained nurse." The child: "Let's see if you can do some of your tricks."

No Reason for Doubt

We want your confidence—want you to feel you can depend on our honesty and sincerity. When we say Rexall Orderlies will give you better results than any similar remedy, and promise your money back if they don't, you ought to believe us.

Rexall Orderlies

taste just like candy. They act easy. They cause no inconvenience whatever. Our faith in them is backed by knowledge of what they are made of and observation of severe cases of constipation and other forms of bowel troubles in which they gave prompt and pleasant relief.

Don't take our word—make us prove it. Use Rexall Orderlies, and if you don't feel like coming back to thank us for telling you about them, then come back and we will return the money you paid us for them. We won't obligate you in any way whatever. Merely ask and back goes your money to you.

Make You Feel Great

That's what Rexall Orderlies do, because the thorough cleansing they give the bowels—their toning and strengthening effect upon the bowels—the influence they exert toward promoting prompt, easy and regular action of the bowels, thus freeing the system and keeping it free from the damage, distress and depression always caused by irregular bowel action. These beneficial results from the use of Rexall Orderlies help dispel gloom, improve the spirits and add to the joy of living. Very often they ward off serious ills that frequently result from continued constipation.

Their Easy Action

Rexall Orderlies are a common-sense remedy for bowel disorders. Easy in action, they do not purge, grip, nauseate or cause excessive looseness.

They tend to tone and strengthen the delicate intestinal nerves and muscles, promptly relieve constipation and help to overcome its causes and make its recurrence improbable. In these things they differ from old-fashioned, harsh, disagreeable physic, which usually gives only temporary relief and often leaves the bowels in worse condition than ever.

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for delicate and aged persons and for children. In vest-pocket size tin boxes, 12 tablets, 50c; 36 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c. Usual dose one tablet.

CAUTION: Please bear in mind that Rexall Orderlies are not sold by all druggists. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores. You can buy Rexall Orderlies in this community only at our store:

Aged Farmer Badly Injured

Thomas W. Smith, aged about 65 years, residing in Buena Vista, is confined to the Protestant hospital in Columbus, suffering from a serious fracture of his right leg, sustained in Columbus Saturday evening when a motorcycle struck him.

Mr. Smith went to Columbus to visit his nephew, Harry I. Clark, attorney, residing at 72 East Oakland avenue, and the accident occurred near Mr. Clark's residence while Mr. Smith was in the act of crossing the street immediately behind a street car, and a motorcycle carrying two men dashed down the street and struck him just as he stepped from behind the car.

His right leg was so badly broken that the bones protruded through the flesh. He was taken to the Protestant hospital and will not be able to return home for some time. Owing to his advanced age there is danger of the injury proving fatal.

Mrs. Smith received word of her husband's injury and left early Sunday morning, to be with him until he recovers.

Large Class Of Boxwellers

A class of 135 pupils from all parts of the county flocked to this city Saturday to take the Boxwell-Patterson examination, the first of which was held on that day.

Within the next eight or ten days, or probably earlier, the successful pupils will be announced.

Amundsen's Good Ship Gjoa, on Which He Drifted Three Years

ROALD AMUNDSEN and Captain Nelson of the Golden Gate life saving service are here seen on the prow of the Gjoa, the ship in which Amundsen drifted for three years. June 1899, to October, 1900, from Greenland and through the Northwest passage to San Francisco. The ship was built in Norway in 1872, length seventy feet, beam twenty feet and forty-seven registered tons. It was presented on June 16, 1900, to the Golden Gate park commissioners by Amundsen and Norwegians on the Pacific coast and is now on exhibition in Golden Gate park, San Francisco.

How Nations Die

Most countries which have died have gone down fighting. The Roman empire perished like that. And by the irony of fate the power of the Caesars came to an end far away from Rome.

After it had existed for centuries the Roman empire became so vast and unwieldy that it had to be divided into two, says Pearson's Weekly, the empire of the west and the empire of the east. The capital of the former was Rome.

The empire of the west became so weak at last that it could make no stand against its enemies. Rome was sacked by the barbarians and eventually became but the city of Popes, over which the pontiffs reigned as kings. The temporal power of the popes lasted till 1870, while the capital of Italy was first Turin and then Milan. Finally, the city was taken without a real fight by the soldiers of the king of Italy.

The empire of the east had its capital at Constantinople. For centuries it was the greatest power in the world. But it became honeycombed with vice and enervated with pride and luxury. Also it grew old and weak. Then, in 1842, the Turks made a tigerish spring on Constantinople, and took it by storm. The last of the Greek emperors died sword in hand, and his descendants are living in England to-day, in very humble situations.

Profit in Robins.

In central Tennessee are large tracts of cedars, the berries of which served to attract myriads of robins in the winter. One small hunter in that region sends to market annually enough robins to return $500 at 5 cents a dozen, equal to 120,000 birds. They are killed at night by torchlight and with sticks.

Murderer Makes Clean Get Away From Scene

ESCAPES IN TAXI

Chinaman Who Killed Fellow Countryman Carefully Planned Flight.

Columbus, O., April 21.—How carefully Moy Fat, Chinaman, had planned his escape after the murder of S. W. Tang, a Chinese-Japanese, was shown when the police learned that he had a taxicab waiting for him around the corner when he entered the building at Third and Spring streets, where Tang was asleep in the third story. After killing Tang he walked from the building, entered the machine and was driven to Newark. Moy Fat is American born and is not expected to leave the United States.

Word from Baltimore substantiates the theory that Tang was slain by the agent of Tung Woo Coo, landrorman, who was almost killed by Moy Fat when the latter probably mistook him for Tang, is near death's door in St. Francis hospital.

EVER IMPETUOUS BETTY

"News!" cried Betty, waving a telegram in the air. "A couple of Rob's college friends will be here to dinner. Thoughtful of him to let us know. It's a wonder he didn't let them pounce on us unannounced. Hum—Gerald Stanton and Rob Newman. Never saw them, have you?"

The girl addressed folded up her sewing, and rose. They were sitting under the apple trees at their aunt's country house, where they were spending a few weeks.

"Do you realize that we have the meal to get, as Aunt is away?" she asked, calmly. "It is now 11."

"Heavens, so we have!" Betty jumped up and pushed back her tangled hair. "Puzzle—find the chaperon!" she cried, and disappeared in the direction of the kitchen on a run.

"Don't tell me," she exclaimed, as the other entered, rising from the floor barrel into which she had pounced head first, "don't tell me Rob isn't thoughtful. A whole hour, and a dinner to prepare for two unknown men. How much flour do I want for those biscuits?"

A few moments later the chug-chug of the expected auto sounded down the road. A roadster slowed down before the gate, and one of the occupants appeared in the doorway. Betty met him, a smudge of flour on either cheek, sleeves rolled up to dimpled elbows.

"Just come in and make yourself at home," she said. "I'm awfully glad to see you—to see you both. Excuse my cousin and myself, won't you? We're scarcely presentable; we just got the telegram—and two hungry men to feed you know—!" She made a charming little gesture, and her eyes pleaded with him, running over with mirth and excitement.

He looked rather bewildered—hesitated. "Thank you," he said.

"Sit on the lawn, it's cooler," she suggested. "We'll be out soon."

They were. One could scarcely tell how they worked the miracle, but the dinner was ready, the table invitingly set, and themselves garbed in little muslins and very presentable.

Betty pounced on the spokesman of the party, who was what she termed "tall, dark and interesting," leaving the other man to her gentler cousin.

"You must be Gerald Stanton," she said. "Don't contradict me. I've always wanted to know him. I've heard my brother speak of him so much."

The fellow laughed as though highly enjoying himself. He did not contradict her.

Her eyes challenged him mirthfully, her pretty hands flew about in gestures like little white butterflies.

They talked merrily of football—of college. Once she questioned him about Rob, and he threw back his head and laughed as though he had propounded a joke. He was charming when he laughed, at least Betty pronounced him so.

Anne, nearby, with the other men, was also enjoying herself. Once she started up as if to speak to the others, but fell back at a pleading gesture from her companion, and entered a conversation which evidently afforded them both much quiet amusement.

Later they went in to dinner, and it was a merry party that sat down. "I'm sorry Aunt isn't here," said Betty, with a smile that contradicted her words. "You see you didn't give us time to provide a chaperon."

A knock sounded at the door. "Providence has supplied one," she announced solemnly, rising.

"Heavens! It's another man," as she caught sight of him through the hall.

"Do we want any sewing machines, Annie?"

He was a very presentable youth. A long dark coat enveloped him, his hat swung easily in his hand.

"Is Mrs. Newton in?" he asked.

"I'm sorry, but my aunt is away," replied Betty.

The man hesitated. "I am Rob Newman," he said. "I thought Rob—were you not his sister?"

Betty leaned against the door. Out in the street was another machine. Her eyes were glued on it, and its remaining occupant.

"Yes," she said faintly. "I Rob Herrick is my brother."

The others had flocked out from the dining room.

"I hope," Anne was saying severely in her quiet voice, "I hope this will teach you a lesson, Betty. You never did get things straight."

"Forgive me," begged the supposed Gerald Stanton, coming to her side. "I just couldn't resist."

"You know, Anne?" gasped Betty, turning to her cousin. She hesitated, and the dimples came out in her cheeks. "Why didn't you denounce them for imposters?" she said. "They might have gotten off with the silver," adding, "do you know who they are?"

"No," replied Anne, "but I thought he—they looked honest—" she broke off, blushing furiously.

"She took us on faith," said the man at her side.

Betty collected herself and turned to the bewildered fellow in the doorway. "Do get Mr. Newman and come in," she said. "And you," turning to the others, "you may introduce yourselves and we will all have dinner."

DISCIPLES OF ANANIAS

Mrs. Deernorn's talk at the ladies' Aid meeting was really at the root of it all. "What half the men need," she had said, "is to have their eyes opened to the women that really want them. Why, one of the happiest marriages I know was brought about by the man's reading one of his sister's letters for fun. In it a chain of hers was raving over his own perfections and he was so taken with her good taste that he set on to cultivate her acquaintance, fell in love with her and married her, so there!"

Ruth Norcross was idly turning over the laughing words in her mind as she slowly walked homewards up the long village street when suddenly the great idea flashed across her brain! Involuntarily her steps quickened and the blood surged hotly into her face at the very audacity of the thought—and yet, why not?—he could never find out the truth, and if it only should come true—

She was almost running by the time she turned in at her little cottage, the little home that had sheltered so many tender, half-shy dreams that the passing of a certain doctor's buggy never failed to set in motion. Hurriedly, without removing hat or coat, as if she feared her courage might fail her, she seated herself at her writing desk and with hardly a moment's pause for consideration, for the next half hour or so she wrote feverishly.

Her letter finished, without re-reading a word she inclosed it in an envelope, stamped and addressed it, and inside of five minutes more she had dropped it in the corner post box and was back again in the house. Then, when it was too late, woman-like, the horror of what she had done came over her.

She, Ruth Norcross, who in all her 28 years had hardly permitted a man to even "bent her home," had laid her heart bare to a man who had never shown her more than the merest passing attention. Oh, she could never look him in the face again!

She would leave Acton tomorrow—no, that would be to confess all—what should she do?

From the rather heterogeneous mass of his usual morning's mail, Dr. William Ainslie selected one envelope addressed in a plainly feminine hand, studying it for a second or so with a rather puzzled frown.

His next movement, after reading it, must we confess it, was to walk deliberately to the mirror and stand complacently gazing into its depth. What he saw there was evidently not far from pleasing, but what he said was, "What a confounded shame!"

Ruth dragged her reluctant feet to the door in answer to his brisk ring at her bell along about noon. Oh, why couldn't he have stayed away? What could he want?

"Why, er—" she mused the unhappy culprit. "Well," he went on, saying, with not a glance at her confusion, "I really must ask you to repeat what you said."

Repeat, oh, Lor' forbid! Had her life depended upon it she could not have enunciated a syllable.

"Because I must confess to more than criminal carelessness, I had only just glanced at the signature, that's a habit of mine you know, looking at my correspondents' signatures first when somehow I clumsily let the whole thing slip, through my fingers and it landed right in the middle of the open great fire, and poof! up it went, in smoke, so here I am to find out what was in it."

Shades of Ananias! Anyone less confused than Ruth might have questioned the doctor's alibi, but in the great wave of thankfulness that swept over her, Ruth could think could feel, but one thing, she was saved! The next moment she heard her own voice saying, "Right!"

Oh, it was nothing, doctor. I merely asked if you happened to have the holiday number of Harper's. I knew you took the magazine and as I was getting off a lot of belated letters, I made bold to drop you a line. But won't you come in, Dr. Ainslie?"

Dr. Ainslie would, and more than that, Dr. Ainslie could by inviting the bewildered Miss Norcross to drive with him the following afternoon to the neighboring village of Tremont on some professional calls—a proceeding so utterly foreign to his usual custom as to excite even that happy young woman's momentary suspicion.

"What if he had read it after all?" So go she did, not once but many times, and the following clipping from the county weekly some months later speaks for itself:

Married. At Acton, by the Rev. S. W. Brown, Miss Ruth Norcross to William Seaver Ainslie, M. D.

It is closing it may not be anise to mention that long before this Ruth had discovered that the doctor's open possession of a seal of an open grade.—JESSE ANDERSON STICKNEY.

CHILLICOTHE SENDS THANKS TO THIS CITY FOR HELP FURNISHED

Mayor Cahill Writes Letter of Appreciation of Aid Furnished, Warmly Thanking Local Citizens for Assistance in Time of Need—Aid Sent Was Small to What It Would Have Been Under Other Circumstances.

Mayor Harvey W. Smith is in receipt of a letter of thanks from Mayor Cahill, of Chillicothe, on behalf of the citizens of Chillicothe, for the assistance rendered that city during the suffering occasioned by the recent flood.

The relief sent to Chillicothe by local citizens was very small to what it would have been had the railroad been in working order at the time of greatest need, and had not the call from Dayton been so persistent, with easy means of sending the supplies from this point, and also the call from the West Side at Columbus and from Zanesville, to which points relief was also furnished.

The first shipment made to Chillicothe was done late at night when a call for oil stoves and blankets was made. Two automobiles were quickly loaded and reached the city of Chillicothe after much difficulty, and for several days thereafter no railroad communication between this city and Chillicothe could be established.

The first news of the disaster at Chillicothe was given to the outside world by The Washington Herald, which, immediately upon learning of the calamity, telephoned the news to Cincinnati, Columbus, Springfield and other points, and also informed New Holland and Williamsport of the need of assistance in Chillicothe, so that those towns immediately turned their aid toward Chillicothe.

Mayor Cahill's letter to Mayor Smith reads:

Chillicothe, O., April 18, 1918.
Hon. H. W. Smith, Mayor Washington C. H., Ohio.

My Dear Mayor:—On behalf of the citizens of Chillicothe I desire to extend to you, and through you to the citizens of Washington C. H., our most heartfelt thanks for the most generous assistance you gave us during the late disaster through which we have just passed.

I assure you your most generous aid has been highly appreciated by every one in our city and, while I hope your city will never be visited by a similar disaster, I assure you that the citizens of Chillicothe, to a man, will always and at all times be delighted to assist you and your citizens in every way possible.

Thanking you again, I am
Yours most gratefully,
JAMES A. CAHILL, Mayor.

$3,000.000 FOR A FAMILY.

Girl to Get That Amount For Raising Children.

Lowell, Mass.—Wedding bells, it is said, will soon ring for Miss Mary Belle Shedd of Lowell, the most talked of young woman in Middlesex county. Under the terms of one of the strangest wills ever filed in a New England court Miss Shedd will lose about $3,000,000 unless she marries and has children. When this became known the young woman was deluged with marriage proposals.

The offers of marriage continue to arrive, but it is rumored that the daughter of the late millionaire perfume manufacturer, Freeman B. Shedd of Lowell, made her choice some time ago. This will save overburdened letter carriers.

Washington, April 21.—As part of his policy to give the enlisted men of the navy a liberal education, Secretary Daniels announced that the entire Atlantic battleship fleet will next winter make a three months' cruise of the Mediterranean. The fleet which will make this cruise will be stronger than the fleet which cruised around the world in 1907.

First Aid to the Injured.

On a rock-strewn beach on the Cornish coast the fury of a violent storm was just abating. A vessel had gone to pieces on the rocks, and after a display of much heroism on the part of the villagers all the passengers and crew had been saved with the exception of one man. He had been washed ashore apparently drowned, and the new curate knelt at his side on the beach, endeavoring to restore his circulation.

"My friends," he said, turning to the villagers, "how do you usually proceed in these cases?"

As one man the simple folk replied: "Search his pockets."

A young man who was anxious to secure a job as a railroad brakeman, wandered into one of the local yards the other day and came across a bunch of railroad men who were sitting in a shanty. He made known his ambition, and one of the men who is quite a joker, asked him a few foolish questions. The youth answered them and then asked: "How long before I'll be likely to get a job?"

"Sit down and wait," said the joker. "There's ten or fifteen brakemen killed here every day, and you can't tell how soon we will need you."

The young man's ambition seemed to fade, and he remembered that he had an engagement elsewhere.

It was during a very tedious ride on a Western railway, and the passengers tired, dirty and thirsty, all berated the company with the exception of one single man. His fellow passengers commented on this, and asked him why he did not denounce the company too.

"It would be hardly fair," he replied, "as I am travelling on a free pass; but if they don't do better pretty soon, blamed if I don't go out and buy a ticket and join you."

Trained Nurse Tricks.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Professor Andrews Dead.
Marietta, O., April 21.—Professor Martin R. Andrews, 71, died at his home here of heart disease and nervous excitement, though to be the result of the recent flood. Professor Andrews had been a member of the faculty at Marietta college since 1879 and was well known as a historian and editorial writer for the Ohio Teacher and other teachers' periodicals.

Four Proposals Made Laws.
Columbus, O., April 21.—The Weygandt resolution for a commission to investigate the canals, the Hudson resolution creating a commission to codify the road laws, the Haas resolution continuing for two years the commission on state building code, and the Gregory resolution authorizing mayors to appoint commissioners to build public halls, were given full effect by adoption in the house.

Revocation Bill Lost.
Columbus, O., April 21.—A futile attempt was made at the last minute before adjournment to get the Bigelow bill, which seeks to revoke the 50-year franchise of the Cincinnati Street Railway company, before the senate. It had been killed in the committee on municipalities when the committee, by a vote of 5 to 4, refused to report it for passage.

Blacklist Bill Disappears.
Columbus, O., April 21.—A Volmer labor measure was killed in the senate after it had passed the house. It sought to impose a penalty on employers for blacklisting employees. The labor committee had acted favorably on the bill. When the new calendar was arranged by the steering committee the blacklist bill had mysteriously disappeared.

Exempts Public Bonds.
Columbus, O., April 21.—Before adjournment, the house adopted the Mooney resolution for constitutional exemption of county, municipal, township and school bonds from taxation. This is the fourth proposed amendment to the constitution which will be submitted to popular vote at the November election.

Bellefontaine, O., April 21.—Thurman Steele, 16, indicted on a charge of arson, admitted that he set fire to the Second Baptist church because he did not like the janitor. The boy's stepfather, Rev. H. L. Marquie, resigned the pastorate recently and departed in advance of his family for Salt Lake City.

Woman 105 Years Old.
Conneaut, O., April 21.—Mrs. Dorcas Jones, the oldest inhabitant of Ashtabula county, celebrated her 105th anniversary. Her mental condition is good, but she is frail physically, and on this account did not hold her customary reception. She is able to see only her near relatives.

APPALLING FIGURES OF LOSS IN THE GEM CITY

DAYTON'S FLOOD LOSS
Citizens' Committee, After Careful Investigation, Makes an Estimate.
Dayton, O., April 21.—The total property loss in Dayton caused by the flood was $128,249,040, according to figures compiled by the citizens' committee, based upon estimates and information gathered by 17 expert investigators. Nearly one-half of the loss, however, is figured on as depreciation of realty provided the federal government fails to improve the rivers. The actual loss on buildings is figured at $15,200,000; furniture, $9,440,000; merchandise, $18,000,000; live stock and automobiles, $1,000,000; churches and public property, $2,068,100; fire losses not insured, $975,236; pianos in homes, $800,000; leaf tobacco in warehouses, $900,000.

Hope Is Slight For Recovery Of the Pope

HARDLY RECOGNIZED BY HIS BROTHER
Pope Pius' Condition Frightens the Aged Angelo.

Rome, April 21.—Angelo Sarto, the aged brother of Pope Pius X, said in answer to questions that the pontiff was much better. He admitted, however, that his brother was suffering from extreme weakness, adding that he is so emaciated and changed that he hardly recognized him. "I was frightened at his sad condition," concluded Angelo. Dr. Andrea Amici and Professor Marchisava made several visits to the vatican. The sister and niece called at the vatican, but were not allowed to see the pope. Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state under Pope Leo XIII and the leading candidate for the papacy after the latter's death, was specially delegated by the pope to officiate in his stead at the papal altar in St. Peter's, and celebrated the pontifical mass in commemoration of the Constantinian jubilee.

WARDROBE OF METAL PIPE.
Furniture Which is Useful as Well as Ornamental.
A piece of furniture made of metal pipe is not exactly a thing of beauty and a joy forever, but there are times and occasions when such a device may have its good points. It will answer the purposes of prospectors and others who are compelled to move from one point to point at more or less frequent intervals. It will also fill the bill nicely for the persons in the larger cities who are compelled to live in flats where the knock-down feature of the article will be appreciated.

This article is shown in the accompanying cut. It is made entirely of iron pipe and with slip joints, and it is a comparatively easy thing to take it apart and pack it in a very small space for shipment. The criticism that it is unduly heavy

NEW SEATS FOR NATION'S LAWMAKERS

This photograph shows two sections of the new seats which have been installed in the house of representatives in order to accommodate the increased number of congressmen. The seats are planned after those in the British house of commons. Temporary tables will be placed in front of members who are speaking on subjects that require frequent reference to books and documents.

The process of manufacture consists of washing the grass, combing to separate the fibers and spinning in a specially devised machine, which twists a fine protecting yarn in with the fibers, thereby insuring the evenness necessary for use in harvesting machines. The waste is made into bottle covers, and a cheap and very durable floor matting is also woven from the grass. The new twine sells for one-third less than the old-fashioned article, and is said to do its work equally well.

A Kind Heart.
Head of firm (to old bookkeeper): "Henry, you've worked for us thirty years, and during that time you have been faithful and your work has been satisfactory. But you are now so old that we must replace you with a younger man. We are very grateful to you, Henry, and of course, will do the right thing. Have you saved?"
Henry: "I couldn't, sir, with my large family."
"As I thought! Then I want to say to you that we shall be only too glad to keep you on for a month or so at a reduced salary until you can place yourself elsewhere."

Trades People Await Labor's Host

make people well and happy are now beginning to feel that Paterson is being hard hit by the prolonged strike. Every tradesman, business man and banker are suffering from the lack of the 25,000 strikers' patronage, and all are anxious for a cessation of the long-drawn-out labor war which the I. W. W. has been waging for eight weeks.
The strikers are losing each day wages a total of $41,000. The aggregate for the two months is nearly $2,000,000, and the loss of this amount has been sorely felt by Paterson's 130,000 people.
The coming of the A. P. of L. is to be related by the I. W. W. and the authorities fear that the work will be a strenuous one. The initial meeting in the A. P. of L.'s plan to straighten out the city's business economy will be held tonight in the Fifth Regiment armory.

Fully 15,000 people, including strikers and sightseers, journeyed across the Paterson boundary line to Haledon to attend the I. W. W. open-air strike session. William D. Haywood, one of the speakers, said: "We have paralyzed the mills of Paterson. We have put our hands in the pockets of the old mills and they are dead. They will not breathe again until you put your magic fingers in the looms and make them sing once more. Keep the strike within your own hands."

MANY DELUSIONS AND SNARES ARE IN THE UNDERWOOD BILL

ROUNDLY ASSAIL TARIFF REVISION

Republicans of Ways and Means Committee Draw Up Report.

PRESENTED TO HOUSE TODAY

Minority Alleges There Is No Excuse
For Radical Plan of Revision of Revenue System, as Proposed by
the Underwood Bill—Intimate That Drop in Wages Will Follow Enact-
ment of the Measure.

Washington, April 21.—That additional duties such as are proposed
in the Democratic tariff bill are a deception and a snare; that the radical tariff revision submitted by the Democrats is inexcusable and uncalled for,
and that an accounting will come for its enactment into law, are contentions of the Republican members of the ways and means committee in a minority report presented to the
house today.

"There is no excuse for the radical
change in our revenue system proposed by this Democratic bill," says
the report, which is signed by Representatives Payne, Fordney, Gardner,
More, Green and Anderson. "The party
proposing it is in power, not by the grace of a majority of the American
people, but by a division in the ranks of the majority of the American people. The administration has the power to enact this legislation. The accounting for the abuse of that power
will come later."

The report contends that the bill
has caused intense and widespread
alarm in business circles, and quotes
the message of Democratic Governor Foss to the Massachusetts legislature
describing the proposed act as a non-
protective tariff for revenue only, un-reciprocal, destructive downward revision.

Asserting that the Democratic bill
seems to meet with universal approval on the other side of the Atlantic, the report declares that the protective feature has been entirely eliminated
in the framing of the bill. "No one will accuse the Democratic committee," he adds, "of seeking to make up
the difference in cost here and abroad,
or of even trying to put the industries here on a competitive basis with the industries abroad."

"It is easily apparent," says the report, "that many of the duties have
been placed on articles used by our
manufacturers and imported wholly
from abroad as a tax on manufacturers;
that many duties have been lowered so that they are much less than the difference in the cost of labor at home and abroad; that many articles
now paying very low rates of duty
have been put on the free list, while
the comparative cost of production here and abroad is such that it will be impossible for business to continue
without bringing down our scale of wages to the level of the rates paid
abroad."

Young Italian Is Murdered In Cold Blood

New York, April 21.—Vito Pucinato,
a sleek young Italian with soft white hands, who posed as a day laborer, was murdered in the alleyway of a Christie street tenement. He was cut to pieces with a foot-long cobbler's file sharpened down to a fine point.
The light laugh of a woman, the sound of a scuffle and the patter of hurrying footsteps brought a six-foot bearded Russian to the dead man's body a moment after death had come to him in the dark alley. There is no doubt as to the murderer.

Lima, O., April 21.—Women of Lima have organized to conduct a probe and establish a morals court. The mayor and city council are promised to assist.

Small School Board Bill, Held Up by
House Amendment. Among the Debris — Friebohn Judicial Reform
Proposal Also Sent to Conference.
Many Commissions Created by the General Assembly.

Columbus, O., April 21.—Five measures are to be threshed out by conference committees during the recess of the legislature, which meets for final adjournment April 28.

The Warnes automobile license bill
failed to get through. The house refused to concur in the senate's direct-
ing the surplus fees be paid into the
general revenue fund of the state,
whereas the house, by amendment, ordered them paid into the county treasuries for the benefit of county roads.

Senators Wise, Jung and Lloyd,
Representatives Clark, Thatcher and Vonderheide, are the conferees on the Jung small school board bill, out of which the house cut city school districts of less than 150,000 population.
Senators Jung, Broadstone, Frie-
bohn; Representatives Snyder of Hamilton, Guthrie and Reid of Payette, are to put in final shape the Snyder indeterminate franchise bill. With its passage the Cincinnati delegation
finished getting through all the remedial legislation Mayor Hunt asked.

Whether nominations for municipal
offices are to be made by party primaries or at nonpartisan primary
under home rule charters is to be fought
over by the conferees on the Smith
model charters bill. Smith of Butler,
Black of Hamilton and Williams.
The Friebohn judicial reform bill,
prescribing methods of procedure in
the courts under the constitutional
amendment, is in committee of conference. The house attempted to amend
it by cutting the salaries of common
pleas judges and granting them additional pay when they are called out of
their own counties to assist judges,
but the senate refused to concur in
the amendments.

Two big bills were blocked by the house. The needed two-thirds vote to suspend the rules to advance them for final passage could not be had. As a result, the Friebohn civil service bill,
carrying into effect one of the mandatory provisions of the new constitution,
and the Bernstein county officers'
term extended bill were left
among the debris on the house calendar.

No legislature of recent years has created more commissions. The list
includes the industrial commission,
agricultural commission, school survey commission, flood commission,
commission to investigate rural credits, coal screen commission, liquor
commission, insurance rate commission, commission to license nurses,
moving picture commission, normal
school commission, civil service commission, National Guard investigation
commission, rubber strike commission.

The house passed house bill No. 1,
the bill initiated by petition for the
regulation of newspapers.

MISS HELEN KELLER has been for years one of the marvels among the afflicted of America. Today she is more of a wonder than ever.
Deaf, dumb and blind since the age of nineteen months, she has developed into a finely educated young woman, a college graduate, who takes a keen interest in public and civic affairs. She is an ardent Socialist.
Miss Keller has conquered her lack of speech. She can now talk and in a way slight. She is shown here at a flower show in New York. She was able to tell

Painesville, O., April 21.—John
Herr of Painesville claims to have

States and one of three published in 1553, that are now extant. The other two are in Europe. It is a massive affair, bound in wood and covered

with wood type in the Swiss-German language. It was translated from the Latin by Rudolph Wiesenbach in 1550
and printed by Andrew Vulgate. Both
were burned at the stake for their

Wets and Drys After Conferences
Reach Common Ground In Dispute.

Columbus, O., April 21.—Passage of the Greenlund saloon license bill by acceptance by both houses of the
unanimous report of the conferees
practically ended the work of the four months' session of the legislature,
which is to convene for a final day
April 28, and ended the long-drawn
out contest over the license question.

After a series of conferences, with
which Governor Cox kept in close
touch, the four wet members and two
dry members of the conference committee reached common ground on the
point in dispute between the two houses, the amendment forced into
the bill by the dries forbidding the location of saloons within 300 feet of a schoolhouse. This amendment holds
its place in the bill, which will become a law as soon as signed by Governor Cox.

As altered by conference report, saloons now established are to have two
years in which to move beyond the dead line. In cities there are exempted
reputable hotels and clubs.

In addition to the 300-foot limitation, as measured between the saloon
and school building, there was inserted the provision that there must be 300 feet between the premises. This agreement was adopted by vote of 26
to 3 in the senate and 68 to 26 in the
house.

OPTIMIST GAZES THROUGH THE GLASS

PROBABLE EFFECT OF TARIFF REVISION

Expert Redfield Sees No Cloud
On the Horizon.

Washington, April 21.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield, the acknowledged
tariff expert in President Wilson's
cabinet, was asked to give his views
on the probable effect of the Underwood plan of revision on the manufactures of the country.

Secretary Redfield, himself a manufacturer of iron and steel, can see no
dark cloud on the horizon. On the contrary, he believes that the revision
will have the effect of "jolting" American manufacturers into a higher
state of efficiency. He believes that many obsolete inherited notions must
be abandoned and old machinery dis-
regarded. American manufacturers,
in his opinion, will have nothing to
fear eventually from foreign competition. The secretary foresees the day
when American manufacturers can go
abroad and compete with foreign manufacturers even in their own country.

"The low duties will open the market in cases where the price here is excessive to sufficient competition to
hold prices down."

put of the whitefish fry for this

United States government.

UP TO CALIFORNIA

President Wilson Awaits Legislators'
Action On Alien Land Bill.

Washington, April 21.—Now that President Wilson has acted with regard to the California-Japanese situation, interest in Washington is centered on what California intends to do about it.

Secretary Bryan received from Governor Johnson an acknowledgment of
his dispatch communicating to him
the views of President Wilson regarding the situation. This acknowledgment was taken to the White House
by Mr. Bryan. Further than this incident there were no new developments in the situation at this end. An increase of optimism was noticeable,
however, following the president's
recommendations suggesting a toning
down of the proposed legislation in California.

Californians in Washington stick to
their predictions that a bill will be passed which will achieve the desired
end, that is, the elimination of the Japanese farmer.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Professor Andrews Dead.
Marietta, O., April 21.—Professor Martin R. Andrews, 71, died at his home here of heart disease and nervous excitement, though to be the result of the recent flood. Professor Andrews had been a member of the faculty at Marietta college since 1879 and was well known as a historian and editorial writer for the Ohio Teacher and other teachers' periodicals.

Columbus, O., April 21.—The Weyand resolution for a commission to investigate the canals, the Hudson resolution creating a commission to codify the road laws, the Haas resolution continuing for two years the commission on state building code, and the Gregory resolution authorizing mayors to appoint commissioners to build public halls, were given full effect by adoption in the house.

Revocation Bill Lost.
Columbus, O., April 21.—A futile attempt was made at the last minute before adjournment to get the Bigelow bill, which seeks to revoke the 50-year franchise of the Cincinnati Street Railway company, before the senate. It had been killed in the committee on municipalities when the committee, by a vote of 5 to 4, refused to report it for passage.

Blacklist Bill Disappears.
Columbus, O., April 21.—A Vollmer labor measure was killed in the senate after it had passed the house. It sought to impose a penalty on employers for blacklisting employees. The labor committee had acted favorably on the bill. When the new calendar was arranged by the steering committee the blacklist bill had mysteriously disappeared.

Exempts Public Bonds.
Columbus, O., April 21.—Before adjournment, the house adopted the Mooney resolution for constitutional exemption of county, municipal, town ship and school bonds from taxation. This is the fourth proposed amendment to the constitution which will be submitted to popular vote at the November election.

Admits Firing Church.
Bellefontaine, O., April 21.—Thurman Steele, 16, indicted on a charge of arson, admitted that he set fire to the Second Baptist church because he did not like the janitor. The boy's stepfather, Rev. Findlay, O., April 21.—Charles Dyer, 55, of North Baltimore, is said to have gone home drunk and attempted to shoot his wife. His son Arthur tried to take the revolver from him. While struggling with him, the 15-year-old daughter, Beulah, secured the revolver and shot her father. It is said he died soon afterward. The daughter is in jail at Bowling Green.

DAYTON'S FLOOD LOSS

Citizens' Committee, After Careful Investigation, Makes an Estimate.

Dayton, O., April 21.—The total property loss in Dayton caused by the flood was $128,249,040, according to figures compiled by the citizens' committee, based upon estimates and information gathered by 17 expert investigators. Nearly one-half of the loss, however, is figured on as depreciation of realty provided the federal government fails to improve the rivers. Hope Is Slight For Recovery Of the Pope

HARDLY RECOGNIZED BY HIS BROTHER

Pope Pius' Condition Frightens the Aged Angelo.

Rome, April 21.—Angelo Sarto, the aged brother of Pope Pius X, said in answer to questions that the pontiff was much better. He admitted, however, that his brother was suffering from extreme weakness, adding that he is so emaciated and changed that he hardly recognized him. "I was frightened at his sad condition," concluded Angelo. Dr. Andrea Amici and Professor Marchisava made several visits to the vatican. The sister and niece called at the vatican, but were not allowed to see the pope.

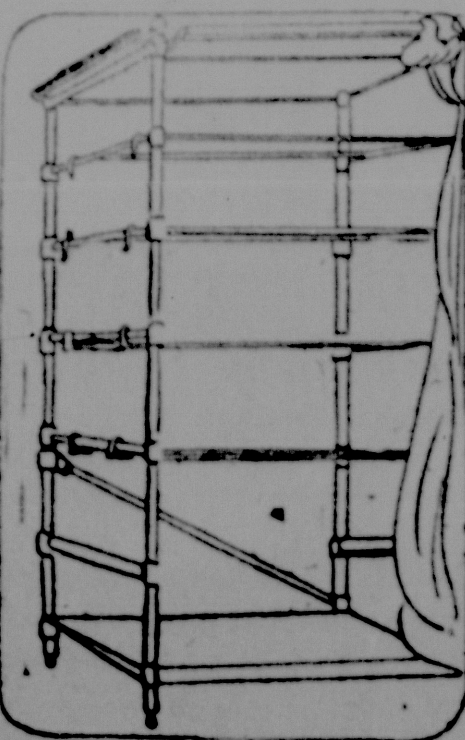

Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state under Pope Leo XIII and the leading candidate for the papacy after the latter's death, was specially delegated by the pope to officiate in his stead at the papal altar in St. Peter's, and celebrated the pontifical mass in commemoration of the Constantine jubilee.

WARDROBE OF METAL PIPE.

Furniture Which is Useful as Well as Ornamental.

A piece of furniture made of metal pipe is not exactly a thing of beauty and a joy forever, but there are times and occasions when such a device may have its good points. It will answer the purposes of prospectors and others who are compelled to move from one point to point at more or less frequent intervals. It will also fit the bill nicely for the persons in the larger cities who are compelled to live in flats where the knock-down feature of the article will be appreciated.

This article is shown in the accompanying cut. It is made entirely of iron pipe and with slip joints, and it is a comparatively easy thing to take it apart and pack it in a very small space for shipment. The criticism that it is unduly heavy

is answered by the statement that it is possible to make use of a very light pipe which will answer the purpose well and yet at the same

NEW SEATS FOR NATION'S LAWMAKERS

This photograph shows two sections of the new seats which have been installed in the house of representatives in order to accommodate the increased number of congressmen. The seats are planned after those in the British house of commons. Temporary tables will be placed in front of members who are speaking on subjects that require frequent reference to books and documents.

Binder Twine From Grass.

For seven years the Agricultural Department has been trying to find an American substitute for the sisal hemp, from which binder twine is made.

This strong cord, with which the harvesting machines tie up the bundles of wheat, is indispensable to the Western farmer. Its manufacture has reached such proportions that "binder twine" plays an important part in each new tariff schedule, and has absorbed the attention of politicians as well as of farmers.

The United States has depended upon foreign countries for the raw material, and a powerful Trust controls its manufacture. These facts give peculiar significance to the successful outcome of the experiments of the Department of Agriculture.

The material which has now proved its commercial importance is the strong wire grass of the slough lands of Wisconsin, Minnesota and other Western States. The plant, known to botanists as carex stricta, is very abundant, but has always been considered useless.

The process of manufacture consists of washing the grass, combing to separate the fibers and spinning in a specially devised machine, which twists a fine protecting yarn in with the fibers, thereby insuring the evenness necessary for use in harvesting machines. The waste is made into bottle covers, and a cheap and very durable floor matting is also woven from the grass. The new twine sells for one-third less than the old-fashioned article, and is said to do its work equally well.

A Kind Heart.

Head of Firm (to old bookkeeper): "Henry, you've worked for us thirty years, and during that time you have been faithful and your work has been satisfactory. But you are now so old that we must replace you with a younger man. We are very grateful to you, Henry, and of course, will do the right thing. Have you saved?"

Henry: "I couldn't, sir, with my large family."

"As I thought! Then I want to say to you that we shall be only too glad to keep you on for a month or so at a reduced salary until you can place yourself elsewhere."
